SAMOA.

GERMAN PRESS AGITATING FOR A SETTLEMENT.

LONDON, Oct. 19.

The German press is clamouring for an immediate settlement of the Samoan question.

The German Colonial Council, in reply to Herr von Bulow, the Minister for Foreign Affairs, considered that it would be advantageous for Germany to abandon Samoa in return for concessions elsewhere.

Herr von Bulow differed from this view.

AUSTRIA.

THE LANGUAGE DEBATE.

LONDON, Oct. 18.

The Czechs, who form a powerful section of the Opposition party in the Austrian Reichsrath, are indignant at the abrogation by the Government of the language decree.

Those members who during the debate spoke against the despatch of a contingent generally paid high tribute to the character of Mr. Meagher, and the fact that he was a member of the House of Commons.

The remaining portion of the debate was chiefly remarkable for expressions of loyalty. Some members were inclined to think it was desirable to support the Government, but others were of opinion that it was not, and the result of the debate was a foregone conclusion; but even at a late hour and in this House there was an abundant supply of speech-makers.

on this assumption, the Premier forwarded a cablegram to Mr. Chamberlain a few days ago. urgently required, seeing that for years past there has been a great dearth of medical officers in the British Army.

The PREMIER said: The course I took was to have the application for the change of the Medical and Corps, through the military authorities, to ascertain whether a Medical Corps—half unit—should be allowed to go. The British Government, and it would play about the half unit.

Dr. GRAHAM said: The word "gladly" is not a word which is used in the House.

The PREMIER said: If Parliament approves of the vote to send a contingent I feel it will be a proper thing to send this half unit. (Hear, hear.)

SELECTING THE INFANTRY.

In view of the reply of the Imperial Government in which the offer of the service of the "A" battery was refused, it is generally considered that the Government will not now send the "A" battery to the Cape. It is, however, not unlikely that the Government will send two units of infantry totaling 250 men and officers will be sent from New South Wales to South Africa. Directly this is definitely decided on the military authorities will publish throughout the colony a notification that all men desiring to form part of the contingent must immediately communicate with the military authorities, and that the Government will not accept an intimation sent to each man whose claim satisfies the preliminary selection, but that the Government will accept an intimation sent to each man whose claim satisfies the preliminary selection, but that the Government will accept an intimation sent to each man whose claim satisfies the preliminary selection.

THE QUESTION IN PARLIAMENT.

THE PROPOSED OFFER OF TROOPS.

APPROVED BY THE LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL.

COLD AND CRITICAL SPEECHES CONDEMNED.

EVIDENCES OF WARM ENTHUSIASM.

The question of sending troops on behalf of the colony to the Transvaal to assist Great Britain in the prosecution of the war against the Boers was briefly considered in the Legislative Council last night.

THE VICE-PRESIDENT OF THE EXECUTIVE COUNCIL, rising amid cheers, moved:—

"That this House is of opinion that New South Wales should equip and dispatch a military force for service with the Imperial Army in South Africa."

He said: I do not think I need have any time to spare in the House at any great length, because I believe that every man in this House is of the opinion that the Government has been right in the decision, and is prepared to give the force of New South Wales to assist Great Britain in the prosecution of the war against the Boers in South Africa. (Hear, hear.)

I regret that the debate in another place upon the subject has not been so satisfactory as it might have been. I do not think it is the duty of the Government to send troops to South Africa, but I do think it is the duty of the Government to send troops to South Africa.
